Business Activities: The subject is a large-sized manufacturer of textile raw materials, specializing in acrylic products, especially medium grade woollen fiber. Its output is 36,000 tonnes per year.

It is money losing due to huge financial expenses incurred by the bank loans it borrowed at its founding for capital construction when it failed to receive state appropriated funds on time. However, as the funds finally arrived, its general condition has been significantly improved, as reflected by its trend in recent three years.

However, it is still beleaguered with overly high production cost and limited capability of business expansion in overseas.

Miscellaneous

Debt-for-equity swap is a practice adopted by the Chinese government in financial reform. According to the practice, state-owned commercial banks convert their liabilities in some state-owned enterprises into equities and pass on these equities to the asset management companies of these banks. Such swap can relieve businesses of financial obligations and help them pull out of difficulties.

As one of the 601 companies recommended by the State Commission of Foreign Trade & Economic Cooperation for debt-for-equity swap, the subject reached an agreement with China Huajin Asset Management Corp. in Mar. 2000. The swap involved 888 mln unpaid loans and no more interest has been borne since Apr. 1st 2000 on.

The swap was not concluded until Oct. 2002 and China Huajin Asset Management Corp.'s local office co-manages the subject since China Huajin Asset Management Corp. does in all the companies in which it has over 500 mln worth equity swapped from debts.
